November Newsletter Week 2

This week has been a really busy week in school and I am really starting to see progress in lots of the children's work. What is pleasing is just how much pride they are taking to try and make their handwriting and presentation as good as it can be, and how proud the children are to show me their improvements. A visitor to the school this week commented on the excellent behaviour of the children and their excellent manners around school. This week we have trialled having additional activities on the playground at lunchtimes which the children have enjoyed so

Anti Bullying Week

This week has seen many activities taking place to raise the importance of Anti-bullying week. Clear messages have been given to the children through work in class and assemblies and speaking to the children it is clear they have listened well. Each class produced work related to the week which we have shared in our Special Friday assembly. This included a series of super poems, a school video, posters, logos and creation of our own odd socks. We have promoted the key message of "Choose respect" throughout the week and it has been great listening to the children using this language at

On Thursday, children in Year 3 to 6 enjoyed some fantastic sessions working on the theme of Anti-bullying with the Konflux theatre company. Feedback from the children was extremely positive and they certainly seemed to be working hard every time I popped in. Through their sessions they explored key messages and issues relating to bullying, through use of drama and games, but left with a clear understanding of the effect of their behaviour and how everyone deserves to be treated with respect in school. Staff from Konflux were incredibly impressed with the children's knowledge and

Fantastic Footballers

A massive well done to the Boys Year 4 football team this week. Playing in their first competitive event together this year, the boys acquitted themselves very well, giving everything, against some strong opposition. On the night they drew two games and lost one narrowly, and with a little more luck in front of goal things could have been very different. Thank you also to all the parents who came and supported and I hope you enjoyed the occasion. Next up are the girls from Year 4,5

Children in Need

Thank you for your support this year and the effort that the children have made too. Ensuring that the children recognise how lucky they are and reflect on this is really important and discussions I have had with them throughout the day show just what lovely
