Despite the terrible weather that we have been experiencing this has not dampened the children's spirits in school and a great deal of excellent work has taken place this week. Across school the focus on arithmetic continues with children working hard to master key skills. In the EYFS classes, on Wednesday, the children experienced a fabulous day of fairy tales, and I would just like to say a huge thank you to all the parents who helped with costumes. Spending just a short part of my day in these classes was wonderful and I know the children had a fantastic time and learnt a great deal.

Across school now we are finally getting settled into our new classrooms. Displays are going up and learning spaces are really starting to take shape. I am really looking forward to our Starbooks event on Wednesday afternoon, when we will be able to show parents just how much the school has changed. Thank you once again for your efforts with home reading too. Class percentages are increasing and this only benefits the children. #spsvision

Christmas Fair, Fast Approaching

On Friday 6th of December, we will be holding our Christmas Fair in school from 1:30pm. A letter will be coming home today with the children asking for any support with donations for the event. Big or small, we are thankful for anything you can provide. The fair is a very important event for the school and your continued support helps us to subsidise the cost of trips and to provide exciting opportunities for the children. Miss Tock is working very hard in her preparations and we thank you in advance for your generosity.

Anti-Bullying Week

This week has been an extremely important week in our PSHE curriculum as together we have focused on Anti-bullying across the school. On Monday we launched our week with an assembly, which discussed the part that the children play in making the school a happy caring environment. Lessons throughout the week have focused on the correct ways of treating people, identifying unkind behaviour and making it clear what children need to do if they feel that others are treating them unfairly or in a manner that does not reach the standards we expect in school. All children have looked at Cyberbullying and the dangers of being online and clear messages have been given by Mr Boyton regarding this. This morning our assembly focused on celebrating the great work the children had completed. This included some excellent writing, a super wreath of caring hands, and some inventive Helpbots created by Year 3. We hope the clear messages received support the children and make them feel confident and happy in school. #spspshe

Children in Need

Thank you to all of the children who have come to school dressed in their pyjamas and comfy wear today. Assembly was great this morning to see everyone dressed up and we took some time to discuss the Children in Need cause and where the children's donations will go today. As a school we discussed how fortunate we are to be part of a caring school and to have caring families and I asked all children to thank their parents for everything they do tonight, so I hope they do. #spsvision #spscommunity

Good Luck Mr Good

Over the next two weeks, Mr Good will not be in school. This is due to the imminent arrival of his second child and Mr Good will be taking his paternity leave during this time. All the staff at the school wish Mr Good well and hope that he has a wonderful couple of weeks with his new child.
