Daisy and the Magical Sunflower

Once upon a time there was a young girl called Daisy who lived with her poor dad. They lived in a rickety, old wooden house with their small pet goat named Polly. Polly was a friendly goat but one day Daisy's dad asked her to sell it so they could get some money. "Polly is old, can you sell her at the market?" asked Dad. Daisy was upset but knew they needed the money. "Sure," she said as she trotted down the dusty road.

She carried on walking until she met a pretty, old lady. "Who are you and where are you going?" asked the stranger. Daisy told her she was taking her goat to the market. "I will give you 5 magic seeds instead," said the lady. Daisy thought it was an extraordinary idea so she agreed and took the tiny seeds. When she got home, her father was furious! "How could you do such a thing?" he shouted as he threw them angrily out of the window. "No delicious dinner for you!" Daisy was so upset she ran to her room as fast as her little legs could carry her. Feeling miserable, she sobbed on her bed without any delicious dinner.

The next morning, Daisy could see the bright sun shining through her small window. But this morning, she could also see a mysterious shadow! Quickly, she jumped out of bed and opened her tatty curtains. "WOW! What a HUGE sunflower!" she shouted. The beautiful sunflower went up to the white, fluffy clouds so she decided to climb it to see what was there. Up... up... up she went. It got colder and colder and colder. Finally, she got to the top of the gigantic sunflower and spotted a magnificent castle.

Slowly, she crept inside. Her legs were trembling. Then she heard a booming voice. "FEE, FI, FO, FUM..." roared the deep voice. Daisy ran as fast as a cheetah to an oven where she hid quietly. Luckily, the giant went to sleep. Phew...she was safe! Something glimmered and caught the corner of Daisy's eye. Slowly, she sneaked out of the oven and dashed to the table. It was golden flowers! She grabbed them as fast as you could say jump but the grizzly giant awoke!

She ran away and carefully scurried back down the magical sunflower clutching the precious flowers. Daisy passed them to her poor dad. "What a lucky escape that was!" they both exclaimed and they both lived happily ever after.

Dear Diary – Monday 27th June

The sun has been very hot today. Grandma and Grandad have come to stay so we went to the beach. We made sandcastles and I swam in the sea. The sea was nice and cold. Mum bought us all an ice cream. It was yummy. Grandad and I caught a crab in a rock pool. We put it in a bucket so we could have a good look at it. The crab looked very angry so we put it back in the water. I really enjoyed our visit to the beach.

Grandma and Grandad went home today. I was so sad when they left. We drove them to the train station. I like looking at trains so we went onto the platform. The trains were big and noisy so Mum took hold of my hand. I think she was a little bit scared! Grandma and Grandad got on a big red train. Grandad pulled funny faces at me through the window. He makes me laugh. I hope they come again soon.
