

LO: Recognise and use symbols of pounds (£) and pence (p); combine amounts to make a particular value.

Fluency

1. Make 50p three ways using the coins below. You can use the coins more than once.

2. I have £1.45. Can you find, write or draw the coins I could have to make this?

3. Paul has £2 and Tony has £1.20. Which coins could Tony add to his pile to make his and Paul's amounts equal?

Equal means "the same".

Application

1. Always, sometimes, never?

You can make £1 using an odd number of coins. Convince me!

2. True or false?

5 copper coins can be worth more than 1 silver coin.

Show me your working out. Use money to help you. Answer TRUE OR FALSE.

Application

1. find all the different amounts you can make using any 3 of these coins.

2. True or false?

3 silver coins can be worth more than 1 pound.

Show me your working out.

Explain your answer > TRUE OR FALSE with an explanation to prove it to me.

Challenge: Create a shopping list and write down the price of each item. Add up all the items to get the total cost for when you go to the till. You can only pay in cash—what quantities of money will you use to pay for it?

Extra challenge *If you pay using notes or not to the exact amount in coins, how much change will you get?

LO: Add and subtract amounts of money to give change, using both £ and p in practical contexts.

Fluency

1. What is the total of the coins shown?

There is ____p.

We know that there are 100p in £1.

So there is £____ and ____p.

2. Converting money

4. Miss Lancaster has 57p, Miss Anderson has 40p, Ramone has 39p and Lynden has 10p. How much money is there altogether?

Show your working out > _____

AMAZING ELEPHANTS

Introduction

Have you ever heard about the Asian Elephant? No? Well, here is your chance to learn more about them! They are intelligent and more active than you think! They are also known about from their head to tail and feet but even more than that, they are also known for their trunk and tusks! They are also known for their trunk and tusks! They are also known for their trunk and tusks!

The Asian Elephant!!!

The elephant is the largest animal in the world! Although the African elephant is bigger, the Asian elephant is bigger than it is the largest animal on Earth! The Asian elephant has small round ears. Their ears help them keep cool in hot weather.

What they eat

They eat lots of grass, fruit and leaves. On a hot day, they will eat a lot of water. They also eat Christmas trees! They love to play with mud and they use their trunk to pick up mud and use it to cover their bodies. They also drink water in the most other ways.

Graph of Trained Elephants

Fun Fact!

An elephant's trunk is made up of many muscles. They use their trunk to pick up things and to drink water.

TRUNK

An elephant's trunk is actually a long nose with many branches. They use their trunk for everything. They use it to pick up things, to drink water, and to play with mud. They also use it to pick up things and to drink water. They also use it to pick up things and to drink water.

JAPAN!

All about

JAPAN!

Funny Facts

Japan is considered the third funniest, yet highly unusual country in the world:

- They have vending machines that dispense beer and cold coffee!
- Musk melons can sell for over £275 and sometimes are occasionally grown in the shape of a square!
- Before the 1700s, women used to dye their teeth black as white teeth were considered ugly!
- Men used to shave their head as a form of apology to someone like their boss!
- As a sign of respect, people slurp their food to show a sign of tastiness!

Japan is one of the best sightseeing countries which has technology way ahead of us, however, some things they have are a bit bonkers and you can find all this freaky info right. This information sheet is your guide to Japan!

Most gadget companies are based in Japan, so some of the boys (maybe even grown men) need to start thanking! In 1998, a young boy created a remote controlled car out of a milk carton; some of you might think this is quite unusual or strange but really it is quite cool! The car company Honda created one of the world's best robots ever as it could walk on two legs and speak any human language! The people who don't do very well in school are actually the ones that are technology minded, believe it or not!

Eng + Dis + Gadget

There's a vending machine

Before the 1700s people used to...

Dispensing Beer!

Black Teeth!

Freaky Foods

People in Japan have a few things on the menu. Us British would think is a bit bizarre: rice has been the most favoured food in Japan for over 150 - eaten virtually in every meal; sometimes even for breakfast. Raw horse meat has been a popular entrée in Japan, and they call it Basashi! Eating Basashi is supposed to affect how long you live, however, no one knows if this is true or merely a myth. People who dine out will acquire the "Three Os!" These consist of O-hashi (chopsticks used instead of knives and forks), Oshibori (napkins used at the end of every meal) and to conclude they have a nice, cool green tea name O-chow!

This is Basashi!

Basashi is Rawhorse meat eaten in Japan!

Research Task: History: Family Tree—create a family tree of your own and decorate it with art work. Some examples are on the next page. How far back can you go?

Lucy and the Leprechaun

Lucy Lutin lived with her grandfather in a run-down old cottage on the edge of Warbling Woods. Her family had lived there for years but their home had seen better days. The windows had cracks, loose bricks hung from the walls and grass grew in clumps on the roof.

It wasn't that Lucy and her grandfather were lazy. For years, they had wished for their much-loved home to be repaired. But her grandfather wasn't as young as he once was. He no longer had the strength to haul bricks or balance on roofs, and they couldn't afford anyone else to help. Instead, all their money went on food for their meals.

Every morning, Lucy would wake her grandfather with a gentle kiss on his forehead. "Today will be a good day!" she would say.

"Today, you will find luck," he would reply.

Then, Lucy would do her chores before heading into Warbling Woods on her way to school.

But, today was different.

Today was St. Patrick's Day and there was a different look in her grandfather's eyes. "You must find it..." was all he whispered as Lucy headed out of the front door.

Lucy soon forgot about her grandfather's strange words as she skipped deep into Warbling Woods.

Before long, she came across a bag hanging from an old oak tree. On the bag were the words 'Catch me if you can'.

"Erm, do mind helping me?" the bag said.

Lucy jumped with fright. "H... help you?" she said.

"Yes," the bag replied. "I'm stuck."

Then, the bag began to fall! Thinking there may be a child inside, Lucy jumped and caught the bag before it hit the floor. She gently lowered it, untied the string, then stepped back.

A small man with a pointy red beard crawled out. He was dressed in green, with a funny hat on top of his head. "You caught me!" he said. "Thank you! You have earned your three wishes."

Reading Response:

"Three wishes?" Lucy said.

"Yes," the man replied. "My name is Gorm-Glas the leprechaun and I am magical. What is your first wish?"

"I can't ask for any wishes," Lucy said with a smile. "I caught you because you may have been hurt, not for payment."

"Then, allow me to wish you luck," the small man said with a twinkle in his eye.

Lucy thanked him and skipped merrily on her way.

That evening, when she returned home, something amazing had happened. The cottage had been completely rebuilt! Somehow the little leprechaun had used his magic to make Lucy's wishes come true for her! The bricks looked new, the window panes had been replaced and there were no clumps of grass on the roof!

"You found it!" cried Lucy's grandfather. "I knew you would!"

"Find what, Grandfather?" Lucy laughed.

"That thing we've been looking for," Lucy's grandfather said, hugging her. "That little bit of magic luck..."

Questions

1. What is the name of the woods that Lucy and her grandfather live in? Tick one.

- Wembley
- Warbling
- Leprechaun

2. For years, Lucy and her grandfather had wished for what?

---

---

3. What was different about Lucy's grandfather on St. Patrick's Day?
Tick one.

- He smiled differently.
- There was a different look in his eyes.
- He didn't want to get out of bed.

4. Put these events in time order. Number 1 is the event that happened first.

- Lucy thinks there may be a child inside the bag.
- Lucy's grandfather whispers, "You must find it."
- 1 All their money went on food for their meals.
- Lucy's grandfather hugs her.
- Lucy jumps with fright.

5. "I can't ask for any wishes," Lucy said with a smile.

Why doesn't Lucy think the leprechaun should grant her any wishes?

---

Don't Hog the Hedge!

Statement, Question, Command or Exclamation

Look at the pictures. Write a statement, question, command or exclamation sentence to go with each one, depending on its heading.

Question

---

---

---

Command

---

---

---

Exclamation

---

---

---

Statement

---

---

---

The suffix -ous: Look at these words, and complete the sentences.

enormous poisonous dangerous luscious mountainous harmonious

The _____ elephants marched through the jungle.

The evil fairy created a _____ apple to kill Snow White.

The Yorkshire Dales are a _____ area.

Sally bought a lovely, _____ shampoo.

The music at the concert was _____ to listen to.

Max the hedgehog decided to cross a _____ road.

Challenge: Can you think of any other sentences using words that end in -ous?

Year 3 Week 5 - Week 5 - Rule: Homophones and near homophones

	Spell	Spell in best joined writing	Look, cover, write and check hear here heel heal main mane mail
mail knot not

Challenge: Write a full sentence using each word.