5. Underline the pronouns in this paragraph.

Things are not going well my husband has died and now the Romans are demanding my land for taxes, they are so greedy. I refused to hand my lands over and they tied me and my daughters to a pole and beat us. The beatings were a warning to me to do as I am told. I will not. I am a good queen and I will fight back. I am going to raise an army and we will march on to the Roman city at Colchester. I will show the Romans that we will not tolerate this. We took Colchester easily, other tribes have joined my army and we are marching on to London and St Albans. I now have a mighty army.

6. Write a paragraph about the Celts. Can you use pronouns effectively to avoid repetition of nouns?
