Y1 Animals Including Humans

LO: To describe and compare the features of a variety of common animals.

In the post assessment, the children did very well. One area which they needed an extra lesson on was the body parts of common animals. There are two animals below

Can you name all of the body parts of the elephant and the honey badger?

The image contains two photographs of animals, each with five empty boxes and arrows pointing to specific body parts for labeling. The top photograph shows an elephant in a savanna landscape. Five arrows point to the head, ear, trunk, leg, and tail, each leading to an empty box. The bottom photograph shows a honey badger in a field of dry grass. Five arrows point to the head, back, tail, leg, and snout, each leading to an empty box.
